Re: Reference for Robert Algieri

I have known Robert for 4 or 5 years as a builder working with him on various hotel renovation projects in the Southwest region.

As a design build company, he brings a complete awareness of the process involved in completing a construction project. He is very competent as a general contractor and has proven a high level of integrity and strong ability to get the job done right for the client and under the agreed schedule.

The most recent work we are doing together involves a multi location contract were Algieri is refurbishing at least three hotels where the complete interiors have been changed and some new construction is taking place to add a Porte' Cochere'.

As a construction manager for a company with assets on a national level, I would support Robert's efforts to become licensed in any state requiring a General Contractor to be licensed.

Sincerely,
